

Counselling and Care Centre Certificate in Supervision for Professionals (Preparatory Course in Supervision)

Training Dates: 3, 8, 17 & 24 July 2024, 9.00 am to 5.00 pm

Trainers:

Rebecca Lo and Nur Hilyah Saparin

Synopsis:

Effective supervision involves not only technical competence but also interpersonal skills, cultural awareness, and a commitment to professional growth.

The trainers will address the common challenges in supervision:

- How do you evaluate the effectiveness of a supervisor?
- Can you give me an example of a supervisory relationship?

Learning Outcome:

It aims to prepare participants to become supervisors in the social and medical care settings. It will seek to equip participants with knowledge and skills to allow them to transit from being a clinician to a supervisor. Participants would be introduced to basic concepts of supervision and professional ethics of being a supervisor. This course would also impart practical skills such as giving feedback, dealing with disagreements from supervisees and how to manage the challenges of being a supervisor.

For Whom:

1. Aspiring Supervisors: Who may have experience in their respective fields but are new to the supervisory role. These practitioners come from diverse backgrounds (e.g., psychology, education, nursing) and are transitioning into supervisory roles.
2. Social Workers: Who play a crucial role in various settings, including healthcare, community services, and child welfare and their expertise in understanding social issues, client advocacy, and case management.
3. Supervisors: Who are experienced professionals who guide and mentor others in their field.

Workshop Fee: $2180.00 w/GST (Pending Pre-approved PCG per participant)

Registration closes on: 26 June 2024 (for VWO) / 15 May 2024 (for Non-VWO)
